DAC Celebrates Long-Serving Staff at Member Social

Eugene, OR – The Downtown Athletic Club members and staff will gather next week to honor the longevity and talent of six staff members who have met or surpassed 20 years of service to the DAC.

“Downtown Eugene has evolved so much in the 30 years since the Downtown Athletic Club has opened its doors, especially over the last 5 years,” says owner Rob Bennett. “As the economy continues to grow, young people are seeing Eugene as a viable option for long-term living post-graduation. These six employees who are celebrating 20+ years at the DAC are a perfect example of how the Eugene community can support individuals as they develop and progress through their careers. These are milestones that deserve to be celebrated and the DAC is excited to be honoring them next week.”

The Member Social will take place on Tuesday, June 14 in the front lobby. It will kick-off at 5:30 with hors d'oeuvres, drinks and live music from the local band Atmojazz.

Among those staff members recognized is Dianne Corwin, who has greeted members every morning from behind the Juice Bar for 20 years. Marilyn Hinson, celebrating 25 years this month, ran the DAC's group exercise program before opening the Movement Studio within the DAC. Debbie Wright jokes that she has taught almost every group exercise class the DAC has offered in her 25 years. Since her arrival 21 years ago, Nickie Green has worked in the child care center watching kids grow up to have their own kids. Sheri Donahoe will soon celebrate 26 years and she has taught a 6:00 a.m. cycle class almost as long. For 21 years, Jean Nelson has taught yoga and continues to keep minds and bodies strong.

Join us in recognizing the unique contributions these staff members continue to make to ensure the DAC and the Eugene community are a special place.
